

The Jury

One of the most important community responsibilities we have is to serve on a jury. A jury is a group of people who listen to stories and decide a fair answer. Jurors are chosen from our community.

They need to be smart so they can evaluate the facts in each person's story.

They need to be fair because they will be determining the results that make a difference in each side's lives. It's important to be right.

It is important to be understanding and ask questions because if you do not ask any questions, it will be harder to understand each side's story and make the right decision.

A jury must also be cooperative because all 12 people need to agree on the decision on whose story is true or who is guilty.

I am thankful for juries because they help our community solve problems and arguments without fighting and hurting others.
